

FinalStand8293 opened 18h ago

---

Hi there,

Would like to clarify a few things here. Do note I am not an associate of the UTTP, O9A and 764 but I am just an anonymous reviewer that would like to give you information about what you are referring to.

Most members of the UTTP from the old side are not CSAM spammers or the ones posting illegal content. Yes, there is harassment involved for them but most of the CSAM spamming is done by the Nu sector of the UTTP. There are two sides, which are the Nu sector and old sector. In which the Nu sector mostly spams illegal content, while the old sector mostly focuses on harmless harassment and spamming. The full reason of why UTTP became a CSAM spamming ring is due to the leadership of Anime Sucks, known as Hyper Bat Mapping that allowed anyone to join the UTTP in regardless of whatever factions they are in or so like Foodists or 764. And the main reason of this was Reginmyre, who was a known Foodist that wanted UTTP to associate with 764 and made the assumption and so. Defender was also another instigator for this too and also worked with both Reginmyre and HBM to invite more members of the group and that's when illegal activities rose among the members of the UTTP in which it mostly involves the CSAM spammers like Klasky Cuspo who made the website Skibidifarms as well as other members in the forum like FPS, General Glen and etc. who decided to do illegal activities there like forcing minors to commit self-harm or so. Though, FBI's investigations have been minor as far as we know. If you would need any more information, I will provide you an email you can contact for more clarification.

UTTP isn't exactly associated with 764 or O9A. O9A doesn't really have any known associations with UTTP as far as I know since neither Defender or Reginmyre got involved, though it's suspected some O9A members did join the UTTP but I am unsure of their names. Only Defender himself would say such false narratives like UTTP being a 764 associated group to get YouTubers like Parlo or Josher to say such false remarks and baiting people just for clickbait and clout.